UNITED STATES AUTO CLUB

The United State Auto Club (USAC) sanctions National automobile racing in six divisions: Dirt Track Championship, Road Course, Stock, Sprint and Midget.

USAC was founded in 1955 when AAA decided no longer to be involved in the sport of automobile racing. USAC is composed of car owners, drivers, mechanics, track operators, officials and fans.

A non-profit organization, the destinies of USAC are guided by a 21-man Board of Directors representing the various groups which make up the club. The Board members are elected to office and have a primary voice in the goal of the organization, to provide qualified leadership and officiating at major automotive competitions, and to see that these competitions are conducted on the highest and safest plan.

The sanctioning of major automobile races such as the Indianapolis 500, California 500 and this year the Pocono 500, is only one phase of the operation of USAC. USAC sanctions all land speed record attempts at Bonneville, the Pikes Peak Hill Climb and certifies tests of various automotive products.

In short, USAC extends every effort to assist the automotive industry in building better and safer cars for the American motoring public, and to assure fans and competitors alike the continuance of the finest tradition in order to make the sport of automobile racing truly "The Sport of the Seventies."
